Prefatory Note

This volume was prepared by Mabel Clare Weaks, now of the New York Public Library, while chief of the division of maps and manuscripts of this Society's library, which office she relinquished in 1918. It is nearly six years since Dr. Milo M. Quaife, then superintendent of the Society and editor of its publications, pronounced the work ready for the press. It could not be brought out at that time for financial reasons, and it has only now become feasible to publish it.

The Kentucky Papers, so-called, in the Draper Collection fill thirty-four volumes and constitute a large fraction of the manuscripts accumulated by Dr. Draper which relate to the history of Kentucky. Another important group of manuscripts relating in large part to Kentucky is the George Rogers Clark Papers, on the calendar of which a large amount of work has already been expended.

The present publication is volume two in the Calendar Series, volume one being the Calendar of the Preston and Virginia Papers, which papers are also part of the Draper Collection. This was brought out in 1915, in format and style to which the present volume conforms. It is hoped that, ultimately, all of the principal groups of manuscripts in the Draper Collection may be calendared for the benefit of the growing body of scholars who are constantly making use of them, and especially for the convenience of those who desire to consult them at a distance from this library. The marginal pressmark, indicating the series, volume, and page, and the figures following the description, which define the length of the original document, will serve as guides to the user of the calendar in ordering photostatic copies or other reproductions. This Society is prepared to supply such aids to investigators at actual cost of the service.

In view of the significant relation of the late Dr. Reuben Gold Thwaites to the preservation and administration of the Draper Collection, it is gratifying to announce that the publication of the present volume is made possible by a bequest which Dr. Thwaites in his will made to this Society.

Miss Weaks's special knowledge of Kentucky and southwestern history, her fine insight and patient scholarship, have enabled her to present in this volume, as in the preceding one, admirably concise but adequate descriptions of the papers she has calendared. American historical scholarship owes to her a debt of gratitude for the service she has rendered herein.

The plan of this series of calendar volumes was determined by Dr. Quaife, who was superintendent of the Society when the Calendar of the Preston and Virginia Papers was published. To Dr. Quaife is due likewise the credit for causing the work on the present volume to be prosecuted to completion.
